

Curriculum Progression Pathway for English

Subject Intent:

We believe that through the teaching of English our students will become more assured and feel empowered enough to question and engage with a range of viewpoints. Students will become more empathic, forbearing and tolerant through the exposure of a range of literary texts that allow students to think beyond their current location and time. Students will build their understanding of the English language and will be able to use more expressive vocabulary in order to articulate themselves in a confident, and appropriate manner.

We want them to have confidence and be able to engage with a range of texts from a range of historical eras. We wish them to build on their knowledge, skills and understanding that they have developed at primary school and therefore, novels, plays, and poems are selected deliberately to represent both diverse cultures from texts from around the world and the English Literary Heritage. We want all students to have a passion for literature, be able to communicate with each other and be able to better understand the written and spoken world around them. Learning these skills will support students academically, professionally and socially in life after George Pindar School.

Why is the study of English important?

English plays an essential role in communication and therefore our lives. Having an understanding of English will help you to communicate effectively and is essential for further studies and work no matter where you are. English helps to expand your understanding of the world and society. It helps to broaden your mind, develop emotional skills, empathy, and will help to provide you with better job opportunities. It helps you to see the world allowing you to be aware and to think far beyond where you are now. It lets you experience events from the past and visualise alternative worlds.

Language is power and we embrace this and let it be at the heart of everything we do. Language fortifies all learning. We aim for all our students to become critical thinkers, problem solvers, be able to craft their writing, appreciate literature, and have the confidence to articulate their ideas so that these skills can then serve them in their academic, professional, and personal lives beyond George Pindar School.

The study of English also supports studies in other subjects. This will allow you to achieve the very best for yourself. English is the language of the internet and travel which means you can access the world around you with confidence. English makes you a critical thinker, exposes you to different cultures, helps you to become a close reader and gives you security in writing for different purposes and audiences. Whilst studying this subject you are exposed to a variety of text which supports your understanding of the spoken and written language. You will be able to articulate yourselves appropriately and in an assured manner.

What skills will the study of English teach you?

- Reading
- Writing
- Listening
- Speaking
- Grammar

What will you know and understand from your study of English?

The overarching aim for English in the national curriculum is to promote high standards of language and literacy by equipping pupils with a strong command of the spoken and written word, and to develop their love of literature through widespread reading for enjoyment.

The national curriculum for English aims to ensure that all students:

• read easily, fluently and with good understanding develop the habit of reading widely and often, for both pleasure and information

- acquire a wide vocabulary, an understanding of grammar and knowledge of linguistic conventions for reading, writing and spoken language
- appreciate our rich and varied literary heritage
- write clearly, accurately and coherently, adapting their language and style in and for a range of contexts, purposes and audiences
- use discussion in order to learn; they should be able to elaborate and explain clearly their understanding and ideas
- are competent in the arts of speaking and listening, making formal presentations, demonstrating to others and participating in debate. (KS3/4 EPOS)

How does your study of English support your learning in other subjects?

Studying English means you have knowledge that can be applied to every subject you take. You will not only improve your ability and understanding of the English language but also your ability to perform well in other classes as you build your English skills during studies such as, but not limited to, History, Geography, Maths, and Science. English develops your communicational skills and your understanding of the spoken and written world. You will become confident in being able to articulate yourself appropriately and feel empowered to question and engage with a range of texts and subjects.

How can you deepen your understanding of English?

You can increase your understanding of English by reading a broad range of books and texts. Read newspapers, magazines, novels from different historical eras, poems, biographies, the list is endless.

Revise set texts and learn key quotations.

Listen to Podcasts and write down unfamiliar vocabulary words - learn them.

Revise literary and linguistic devices, practice using them in your own writing.

How can English support your future?

Learning English opens the world to you, language is power.

Leaving school with a firm grasp of the English language by being able to read fluently and with a good understanding, write clearly, coherently and accurately and being able to explain yourself clearly and elaborately will lead you to better opportunities when you leave George Pindar School. English is recognised as the language of the internet and travel meaning you can take your studies wherever you want to go academically, professionally and socially.
